GENERAL DATA PROTECTION REGULATION

What is this form all about?

You may have heard that the Government are soon to introduce new regulations to control how people deal with your personal details and data – known as the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). This will affect the information you provide on the consent form for your PSA blood test.

What Data will we keep about you?

- The personal information you supplied on the PSA consent form – name, address
- Contact details – telephone number, email address

Why do we need to keep your Data?

We keep contact information, especially postal addresses, email addresses and telephone numbers, so that we can contact you to inform you of your result. Your PSA result is kept so that a comparison can be made should you come for a further test in the future. You may request your result at any time should you not remember it. If you are in agreement we will contact you about similar PSA events in the future. Data will be kept in a secure environment.

Who has access to your Data?

Data we hold about you is visible only to the supervising medically qualified personnel, and authorised Reading Lions members, who need that information to perform their duties in connection with the PSA Testing Event. The information will not be sent to any other members, or outside of the Reading Lions Club.
